BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENT

Middle East crisis – current situation and impact on supply chains

Dear business partners,

In light of the recent developments in the security situation in the Middle East, we are experiencing significant fluctuations in oil prices, as well as unpredictable and delayed shipping schedules. If the situation does not stabilize soon, the expected impact on energy prices will directly affect industrial costs and the stability of supply chains.

Currently, our production and deliveries remain stable; however, we are already experiencing transport issues and have received price increase announcements from raw material suppliers. Therefore, we cannot rule out a gradual increase in prices and longer delivery times for certain products in the coming weeks.

How we are addressing the situation:

- we continuously monitor the entire supply chain
- we are increasing stock levels of key items
- we are forced to shorten the validity period of our quotations

Recommendations for your planning:

- place orders with sufficient lead time
- consider possible price increases
- consider potential extensions of delivery times

For current prices and delivery terms, please contact your sales representative.

We greatly appreciate your trust and firmly believe that through mutual communication and understanding, we will navigate this turbulent period as strong partners.

Thank you for your cooperation and trust.

Best regards,

25th March 2026
